Think Before You Pink!

Why Pink?

You may have heard about special events, like walks or races, to raise money for breast cancer research. Or maybe you've seen people wear those little pink ribbons on their clothes. Now you want to wear pink for October. Do you know why? Make sure you and your family know why and "think before you pink".

What is Breast Cancer?

The human body is made of tiny building blocks called cells. Your body creates them, replacing those that die with new ones. Usually, the body creates healthy, normal cells that do just what they're supposed to do. This includes cells in the breasts, the two rounded areas on the front of the chest.

But if a cell changes into an abnormal, sometimes harmful form, it can divide quickly over and over again without dying, making many, many copies of itself. When this happens, a tumor, abnormal body cells grouped together in the form of a mass or lump, can start to form and grow.

Breast cancer is a kind of tumor that develops in the cells of a person's breast. You may think that only women can get breast cancer, but because all people have breast tissue, men can get breast cancer as well — though this is very rare.

A tumor can form anywhere in the body. Someone has cancer when those abnormal cells will not stop growing, and then cause sickness in a person's body.

Capital City Bearcat's "Pinktober"

So why pink? We wear pink to create awareness and support the many people that are fighting to beat breast cancer. We wear pink to support the need for more research so lives can be saved. We wear pink to remember those that have lost their battle against breast cancer. We wear pink because we care! It's not about the livest gear or the tightest socks! It's about making a difference and creating awareness while playing football or cheering on the sidelines.

So, make sure you think before you pink! While you may wear it, remember it's not about you.

Happy "Pinktober"!

Best,

Capital City Bearcats Board
